Health warning

Aspartame is an artificial (chemical) sweetener widely used in various food and beverage products since the 1980s, including diet drinks, chewing gum, gelatin, ice cream, dairy products such as yogurt, breakfast cereal, toothpaste and medications such as cough drops and chewable vitamins. Aspartame has been classified as possibly carcinogenic i.e. may cause cancer.

Some children are bringing drinks and foods to school each day which contain Aspartame and so I would once again encourage parents to send health, real foods in with your child/children for their lunch.
